UNIT 8 CONDITIONALS

Introduction to Conditionals

A conditional sentence consists of two parts: the "if clause" (which states the condition) and the "main clause" (which states the result). The order of these clauses can be changed without altering the meaning.

There are four main types of conditional sentences:

- 1. Zero Conditional (General truths and facts)
- 2. First Conditional (Possible future events)
- 3. Second Conditional (Hypothetical situations)
- 4. Third Conditional (Past situations that didn't happen)

Let's explore each type in detail with examples.

Zero Conditional

Zero conditional sentences talk about facts, rules, and things that are always true. They follow this structure:

Structure: If + present simple, present simple.

Examples:

- If you heat ice, it melts.
- If the sun sets, it becomes dark.
- If you mix blue and yellow, you get green.
