THE CIVIC LIFE IN PAKISTAN

RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS OF A CITIZENUNDERSTANDING CITIZEN RIGHTS

Rights of a citizen are the freedoms and privileges that individuals have in a country. These typically include the right to free speech, the right to vote, the right to privacy, and the right to receive education and healthcare. In a democratic society, these rights are protected by law and allow individuals to live with dignity and equality.

CITIZEN'S DUTIES

Obligations or duties of a citizen are just as important as rights. They include obeying the law, paying taxes, serving on juries when called upon, and participating in the democratic process, such as voting. Duties ensure that the country functions smoothly and that rights are protected for all.

DUTIES OF A STUDENTACADEMIC RESPONSIBILITIES

As a student, your primary duty is to study and learn. This means attending classes regularly, completing homework and assignments on time, and preparing for exams. It's important to take education seriously because it prepares you for your future career and life in society.

CONDUCT AND PARTICIPATION

Another responsibility is to behave respectfully with teachers, classmates, and school staff. Students should also take part in school activities and contribute positively to the school community. Being a good student means being curious, hardworking, and cooperative.

UNDERSTANDING CORRUPTION

Definition of Corruption Corruption is the misuse of power by someone in a position of authority for personal gain. It often involves bribery or dishonesty and can happen in government, businesses, and other organizations. Corruption is when the rules are bent or broken so that someone can get ahead unfairly or steal from the public or a company.

Impact on Society Corruption has many harmful effects on society. It can lead to unequal opportunities, waste public money, and erode trust in institutions. Corruption can also slow down a country's development because it discourages people and businesses that want to work honestly. It's a major obstacle to fairness and justice in society.
